

Did JFK Know He Would Die?

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson was quoted Wednesday as saying he has wondered whether the late President John F. Kennedy had a premonition he might die in office.

The Reporter magazine quoted the President in an article declaring that Kennedy, a one-time close friend of Johnson, decided to ask Johnson to be his running mate on the Democratic national ticket in 1960.

"He said (the day after his nomination) he hoped I could run with him, that he had said many times that he thought I was the best qualified for the presidency by experience, but that I should be the one who would succeed if anything happened to him."

The article said Johnson remarked "that many times since Nov. 22 (the day of Kennedy's assassination) he has wondered whether Kennedy had had any premonition in 1960 that he would die in office."

Nixon Talks Up Gov. Romney

LONDON (AP)—Richard M. Nixon said Wednesday night Sen. Barry Goldwater does not have the Republican presidential nomination clinched and Michigan's Gov. George W. Romney has the strongest chance of beating Goldwater.

The former U. S. vice president, here on a two-day private visit, spoke to newsmen at London Airport, where he was met by a U. S. Embassy official.

Nixon said the question whether Goldwater would have any serious opposition would be decided before the Republican National Convention at San Francisco in July.

Presidential Scholarships

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson told 121 of the nation's brightest 1964 high school graduates Wednesday night that it is his challenge and their duty "to show the way toward our society's greatest day."

Johnson spoke to the youngsters, who have been picked as Presidential Scholars, in the White House East Room.

"You are not here today because you are typical — nor because you are representative of your generation or your graduation class," Johnson said.

Pentagon Denies Cuban Shooting

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon denied Wednesday a Havana charge that U. S. satellites at the American naval base in Guantanamo Bay shot and wounded a Cuban. It suggested the shots may have been fired by Communist troops hunting down anti-Castro personnel.

The Armed Forces Ministry in Havana said that a Cuban was wounded Tuesday night by fire from American satellites guarding the Guantanamo base.

Stock Market Advances Again

NEW YORK (AP)—For the first time in a month, the stock market Wednesday was able to make a second straight daily advance. Trading was slack.

The Dow industrials closed with a gain of 1.99 at 807.53. At their peak in late afternoon, they were up 3.23.

Volume continued lackluster—4.18 million shares compared with 4.48 million Tuesday.

Of 1,317 issues traded, 679 rose and 367 fell. New highs for the year totaled 29 and new lows 41.

Senate Busts 75-Day-Old Filibuster

House Backs LBJ To Hilt; Okays Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House voted President Johnson virtually every penny of his $3.5-billion "barebones" foreign aid authorization request Wednesday night.

It was a kind of support no other president has ever received in the 17-year history of the controversial program.

The rollcall vote on final passage was 230-175.

A final Republican attempt to cut $222 million from the economic portion of the bill, led by Rep. E. Ross Adair, R-Ind., was defeated by a 211-193 rollcall vote, leaving the military aid intact.

But unlike last year, when he was able to knock off almost $600 million, Adair's motion failed. The difference was that Johnson presented a stripped-down request to start, $1 billion less than President John F. Kennedy asked last year.

The two-day debate sparked a few sharp exchanges, mostly on the part of members who reacted to what they regarded as overly sharp tongues.

The House debated an amendment to ban all aid to Egypt, except for schools and hospitals, unless the president determines that Egypt is not preparing for aggressive military action against Israel or any other eastern Mediterranean country.

The President's full request for funds, including an extra $125 million to step up the war in South Viet Nam, was virtually untouched during the amendment process.

The bill now goes to the Senate, where it is likely to get similar support.

But still to come is the appropriation bill for the actual financing of the program. Wednesday's authorization bill only sets the ceiling figure. Traditionally, the program has fared worse at the hands of the appropriation committees.

These were the significant amendments adopted:

—Earmarking $200 million for supporting assistance to South Viet Nam because of the war situation, but allowing the president to determine otherwise in some unforeseen emergency.

—Earmarking another $200 million for military assistance for South Viet Nam, again with the presidential waiver clause.

—Forbidding aid for any productive enterprise unless similar U. S. enterprises are operating at near capacity, and providing it does not cut into the U. S. share of the world market.

Johnson congratulated the House for what he termed its "wise and prudent action" in passing the bill by a margin of more than 50 votes.

On the final roll call 56 Republicans joined 174 Democrats in voting for passage of the bill. Against it were 115 Republicans and 60 Democrats.

Crew Leaves Burning Ship

HONOLULU (AP)—Thirty crewmen of the freighter Pomona abandoned ship 100 miles southwest of Honolulu on Wednesday after fire broke out in the engine room.

The Coast Guard said three men remained to fight the blaze on the vessel, whose captain was axed to death in mid-May.

Flights Over Laos Halted By U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. sources said Wednesday night that no American flights are now being conducted over Laos, but did not rule out resumption of flights later.

The outcome of a meeting between Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma and the American ambassador at Vientiane, Leonard Unger, scheduled for Thursday will have a bearing on the future of the American reconnaissance mission, the sources said.

U. S. Navy jets from the carrier Kitty Hawk began picture-taking trips over central Laos at Souvanna Phouma's request.

May 21 after the Communist Pathet Lao supported by North Vietnamese seized the important Plaines des Jarres.

Informants said considerable photographic information has now been gathered and no flights were made Wednesday.

Vientiane sources were quoted as saying that Souvanna Phouma had asked that the flights be halted Wednesday. The premier also reportedly indicated he had not okayed the use of armed escorts.

Earlier a State Department spokesman defended the U. S. flights but declined to say whether Souvanna Phouma had agreed to them.

LBJ Wants To Share Large Reactor Data

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—President Johnson says the United States is years ahead of the planned progress in the economic use of large-scale reactors for electric power.

He says this knowledge will be shared with the world.

Johnson made the announcement in a commencement address Wednesday at Holy Cross College. He was awarded an honorary degree as doctor of civil law.

"In the past several months we have achieved an economic breakthrough in the use of large-scale reactors for commercial power," he said.

Johnson said that by September he will report to the third international conference in Geneva on the peaceful use of atomic energy on our new capability to use the power of the atom to meet human needs.

"This new technology, now being applied in the United States, will be available to the world," he said.

The President also said: "Moreover, the development of the large-scale reactor offers a dramatic prospect of transforming sea water into water suitable for human consumption and industrial use."

"Large-scale nuclear reactors and desalting plants offer in combination, economical electric power and usable water in areas of need. We are engaged in research and development to transform this scientists' concept into reality."

White House aides said the President's comments on commercial nuclear reactors were in reference to proposals by private firms to build reactors which can compete in price with conventional power.

Senate Okays Amendment To Hike State Debt Limit

HARRISBURG (AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment was introduced in the Senate Wednesday that would raise Pennsylvania's debt limit from $1 billion to $1.1 billion.

The measure came just 24 hours after the Senate passed a related bill aimed at broadening the state's borrowing powers and eliminating the authority system of financing Commonwealth construction.

"I am offering this proposal so that if the House does not act on the measure we passed yesterday (Tuesday), we still will have this one around," said Senate Minority Whip William J. Lane, D-Washington.

Lane's bill was referred to the Senate Committee on Legislation.

The related proposal, passed by the Senate and sent to the House on a vote of 30-6, is aimed at eliminating the General

State Authority and the Highway and Bridge Authority.

Instead, all long-term debts would have to be authorized by law requiring approval by the legislature and the people.

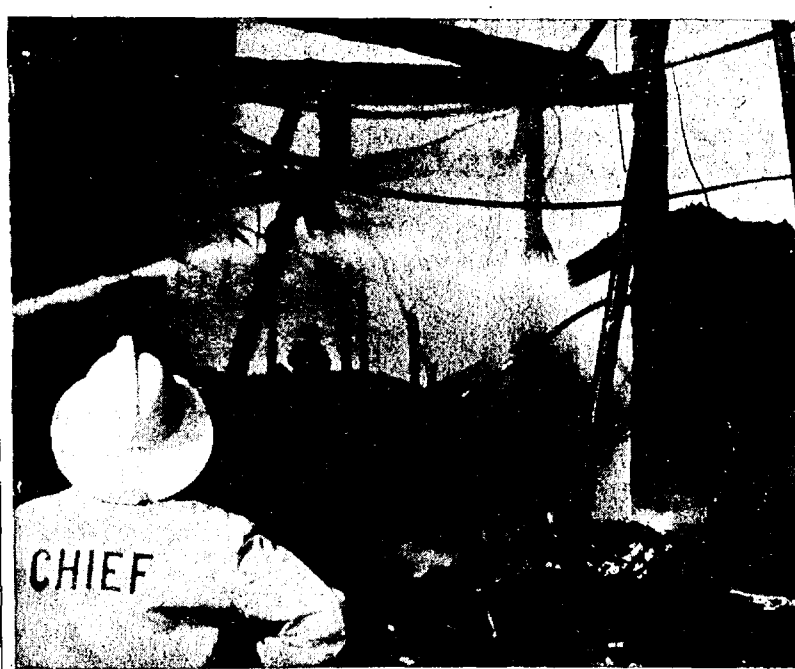

Currently the state is banned from incurring any debt over $1 million except in times of emergency. Only the State Public School Building Authority would remain unaffected by the efforts to do away with authority financing.

At the same time, the Senate passed a resolution capping construction of a new interstate highway across southern Pennsylvania between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

The proposal requests the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads to discontinue including the 300-mile Pennsylvania Turnpike as part of the state's quota in the interstate system.

"If this is done, and it should be, because the federal government has done nothing with respect to the turnpike, then Pennsylvania is entitled to 300 more miles of interstate highways," said Sen. George N. Wade, R-Cumberland, principal sponsor of the resolution.

The proposal would begin in the industrial center of West Philadelphia, connecting with Interstate 95, and proceed through industrial Philadelphia, Chester, West Chester, Coatesville, Downingtown, Lancaster, then northwest to Harrisburg, Lewistown, the Juniata Valley, Huntingdon, Hollidaysburg, Altoona, Johnstown and Pittsburgh.

Boilerhouse Burns In Pen Argyl

By JIM SHAFER
West End-Slate Belt Reporter

PEN ARGYL — Fire of undetermined origin yesterday completely destroyed the one-story frame boilerhouse at Stephens Jackson Co. in Pen Argyl, manufacturers of slate products.

Fred Johnson, an employee of Florio Trucking Co. of Pen Argyl, discovered the fire when he went to the quarry to pick up a company truck.

"I saw a great deal of smoke coming from the direction of the boilerhouse as I came up the road to the quarry office. When I came to the top of the hill I knew there was a good fire burning but I was unable to see just what was burning due to all the smoke," Johnson said.

"This was about 4:30 p.m. I called in the alarm and then ran towards the boilerhouse. It was from that direction that all the smoke was coming from. When I got there smoke was coming out of the roof and I could see the flames inside the building. The wind was blowing very hard and this, I think, fanned the blaze," he added.

Fire Chief William Savercool and Harry Stoffel, president of the firm, both said that they had no idea in what part of the wooden building the fire started nor did they have any knowledge of what caused the fire.

Savercool said he would return today to make his investigation.

Stoffel said the destruction of the boilerhouse would force the business to close for several days to allow men to make an inspection of the boilers.

The only parts of the building remaining in the air were the brick boilers, metal smoke stacks and steam pipes.

Savercool sounded a second alarm at 5:20 p.m. to summon additional firemen to the scene. About 15 firemen reported on the first alarm. Savercool wanted the new men as relief for those who had been stationed around the burning embers to wet it down.

Savercool said the company secured at 7 p.m. but left one fireman there, with preconnected hose, to watch the embers during the night.

Firemen were recalled to the scene at 10:21 p.m. when sparks from burning embers were blown into an abandoned engine house and ignited floor boards in the building.

Firemen on duty had the fire extinguished by the time other firemen arrived at the scene.

Tense Senate Vote Makes History

WASHINGTON (AP)—Almost from the hour it began—75 days ago—most knew it would come to this. And now the moment was at hand.

Seldom has the historic old Senate been so crowded; seldom had the 100 who are the senators been so tense.

There was hardly a stir in the packed galleries and on the crowded floor as the tally clerk called the roll for the historic invoking of cloture in a civil rights bill debate.

The last emotional appeals had been made — by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., by the captain of the opposing southern bloc, Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga.

The drama spanned the history of the land.

Now the crowds whispered excitedly as Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., was rolled into the chamber in a wheel chair. Recovering from two brain operations, he would vote, nevertheless.

"The clerk will call the roll . . . Almost every senator kept the tally . . . there was a surprise here and there."

Sen. J. Howard Edmondson, D-Okla., one of the handful of uncommitted who had been wooed by both sides, voted yes.

Ball Carries Johnson Plea To Cyprus

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—U. S. Ambassador to State George W. Ball delivered Wednesday night a message from President Johnson to Greek Premier George Papandreu dealing with the deepening crisis between Greece and Turkey over Cyprus.

Ball met for 30 minutes with the premier.

Contents of the message were not disclosed. Informed sources said earlier Ball was carrying word to both Athens and Ankara that the United States was prepared to take sharp measures to prevent the Cyprus conflict from sparking a Greek-Turkish war that would have disastrous consequences for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The informants did not specify the nature of the possible measures.

Johnson ordered Ball to make a hurried trip to the capitals of the two eastern Mediterranean NATO partners in an effort to ease tensions and war scares straining relations between them.

He sped to Athens by military jet from the world trade conference in Geneva.

"President Johnson felt that, in view of the urgency of the problem, I should come here," Ball told newsmen in Athens.

Ball conferred with Premier George Papandreu and arranged to meet Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu in Ankara on Thursday.

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., who had kept the Senate in session all night in a last futile cry against ending unlimited debate, voted no. He slumped wearily in his seat.

Engle, arm in a sling, waved and nodded his head to affirm his vote.

When the decisive 67 ayes had been reached, the crowd let out its breath in a long sigh and sound again filled the old chamber.

This sound rose until, as the business proceeded, wildly and noisily, Russell cried "the spirit of the lynch mob" has taken over the Senate.

The long, unlimited debate was over. For the first time cloture had been invoked on a civil rights bill and for only the sixth time in history.

King Asks Federal Aid In Augustine

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said Wednesday he will ask President Johnson to send federal marshals in to this city to help preserve law and order.

"After what took place Tuesday night and the absolute refusal of the police to do anything about it until towards the end, I think there is a need for some federal restraint force," King said at a news conference shortly after arriving in St. Augustine from Atlanta. White gangs attacked demonstrators in a night march Tuesday.

King said he would urge in a telegram to Johnson not only protection but also personal intervention by the President to open communication between the white and Negro communities.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—About 500 civil rights demonstrators, most of them Negroes, poured out of a church Wednesday night for the largest anti-segregation march in this city's simmering racial crisis.

Invoke Cloture By 71-29 Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—With four votes to spare, the Senate called a halt Wednesday to the 75-day-old civil rights filibuster by limiting each senator to one hour more of talk.

All 100 senators were present for the 71-29 vote invoking cloture on civil rights debate for the first time in Senate history. Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., ailing after two brain operations, came by ambulance and wheel chair to cast an eye vote and help provide the necessary two-thirds majority.

The roll call was tolled off to a packed, hushed chamber. The talk-halting move was backed by 44 Democrats and 27 Republicans. Opposed were 23

Democrats and 6 Republicans—including Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the front-runner for the Republican presidential nomination.

The Senate then turned to vote on a stack of about 500 amendments that have been offered over the weeks of debate.

After acting on only two of them it agreed to recess from 12:15 p.m. until 3 p.m. to get the parliamentary tangle clarified.

"We need some time to regroup, rethink and re-collect," Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., explained with a smile in obtaining unanimous consent for the respite.

Final Passage

Expectations in the Senate were that the momentous bill would come up for final passage next week, possibly even this week. The time will depend on how many amendments are brought to a vote.

Since many are duplicates or are of little substance the total actually called up may be less than one-third of those offered. Few are expected to be adopted.

But no matter how many votes are taken no senator may talk more than one hour from the time of cloture until the final vote on passage.

Clerks with stop-watches and tally sheets alertly charged off the seconds and minutes as senators spoke — miserly with words, compared to the free-wheeling talk since the debate began March 9. Mansfield kept reminding them "Your time! Your time!"

Minutes Used

On the first amendment vote, Sen. Samuel J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., used only three minutes of his hour to bring up his proposal to bar a person from being tried twice where the same act constitutes both a crime and criminal contempt. With much vote switching it was finally adopted 49 to 48.

President Johnson, who has repeatedly called for passage of the bill, was delivering a commencement speech at Holy Cross College in Worcester, Mass., when the cloture vote came.

He departed from his prepared speech to announce: "We are going ahead to end poverty and racial injustice and we are going ahead on civil rights. They voted cloture in the Senate today by vote of 71 to 29."

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., leader of the Southern bloc fighting the bill, told the Senate "You are nibbling away at the very cornerstone of the American system, invading a man's private property and taking away his total dominion over it."

Scott, Clark Vote Cloture

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pennsylvania's two senators, Republican Hugh Scott and Democrat Joseph S. Clark, voted for cloture Wednesday to limit debate on the civil rights bill to one hour of speaking time for each senator.

Training For JPs Okayed; Demos Pout Over UC Bill

HARRISBURG (AP)—The House reversed itself Wednesday and approved a proposed constitutional amendment to require training courses for justices of the peace, aldermen and magistrates.

The measure failed Tuesday for lack of the 106 affirmative votes required by the constitution for passage, having received only 100. Legislative rules permit reconsideration of defeated legislation.

"The bill, backed by members of the minor judiciary to offset proposals that their offices be eliminated entirely, was sent to the Senate on a vote of 123-45. It also requires approval by the 1965 legislature and by the bill over violent Democratic objections.

Three months of training in approved courses for persons elected to the minor judiciary after the amendment becomes part of the constitution.

Several House Democrats still harboring strong feelings aroused by the stormy passage of the unemployment compensation reform bill March 20, complained that the official journal of that date is incomplete.

"There were gross omissions of references damning to the conduct of the House on that date," said Democratic Floor Leader Anthony J. Petrosky.

The Democrats recalled that they were unable to gain recognition as the Republican majority shut off debate and voted the bill over violent Democratic objections.

"We watched the legislative process crumble," said Rep. Harry Kramer, D-Allentown. "We watched a piece of our country fall apart."

Kramer lost a motion to suspend the House rules to permit reopening of the journal for March 20 so that further remarks could be inserted.

"I just want the record to show that if I had been permitted to vote that night, I would have voted no," Kramer said.

The U. C. bill passed with the bare constitutional majority on a vote of 106-4. Most Democrats were not recorded because they had gone to the rear of the House chamber or were out of their seats in protest over the roll call vote.

Keystone Delegates Still Supporting Gov. Scranton

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pennsylvania's delegates to the Republican National Convention remain predominantly behind Gov. Scranton, with the exception of three who still lean toward Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Scranton has tried to keep the state's delegation free of Goldwater commitments though he consented last week to former President Eisenhower's request to avoid involvement in a stop-Goldwater drive.

The Governor returned from a Governor's Conference in Cleveland amidst rumors that Goldwater forces are attempting to line up the support of Pennsylvania delegates for the July convention in San Francisco.

Apparently 61 of those delegates remain in support of Scranton, who many observers consider eliminated as a candidate. He had been looked upon as one of the last hopes of his party's moderates.

In Pittsburgh, Paul W. Huges, Allegheny County GOP chairman, stated that Pennsylvania delegates already are edging toward Goldwater.

In Philadelphia James F. Malone, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association, said:

"It looks as if this fellow (Goldwater) will have enough votes to get the Republican nomination even before he gets to San Francisco."

Malone stated that he believes the state delegation, of which he is a member, "wants to be with the winner." He added that unsuccessful attempts of the liberal GOP to stop Goldwater at the Cleveland conference didn't do the party much good.

The three state delegates favoring Goldwater are:

Theodore L. Humes, Bolivar, who said that he is pledged to Goldwater, and will "stay with him to the end."

Edward S. Swartz, Hummelstown, who said he intends to stay with Goldwater, and expects him to be nominated on the first ballot.

Donald P. Kennedy, Erie, who

calls himself undecided, but he confesses that he has been a Republican for Goldwater."

Scranton Shuns VP Questions

By RICHARD L. GRAVES
Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton returned Wednesday to an accumulation of state problems, shunting aside questions about his availability to run for vice president on a possible ticket headed by U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Scranton told newsmen in Harrisburg last week he would not consider the second spot, except on a draft basis, even if asked to run by the presidential nominee.

He reinforced that position Sunday at the 56th annual Governors' Conference in Cleveland when he said he considered himself and Goldwater too far apart on some issues to run on the same ticket.

On returning from the Governor's Conference Wednesday he said:

"My position has not changed one iota."

Goldwater held a long and all but unchallenged lead for the nomination in the wake of four days of agitated maneuvering at the Governors' Conference that saw Scranton and Michigan Gov. George Romney rule themselves out as prospective leaders of a "stop Goldwater" movement.

Attention was focused on Scranton after a meeting he had last Saturday with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Eisenhower urged Scranton to make himself "more available" for the GOP nomination.

Sunday morning Scranton went to Cleveland with every appear-

Lutheran Clergy Need Cited

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Central Pennsylvania Synod of the Lutheran Church in America expressed concern "Tuesday over the number of vacancies in pastoral charges."

"There are approximately 30 charges in the synod that are seeking to call pastors, or about twice the number that we would hope to have vacant normally," said the Rev. Dwight S. Putnam, Harrisburg, synod president, in a report to the synod's third annual convention at Gettysburg College's Christ Chapel.

"The vacancy situation will undoubtedly become still more acute in the months ahead," he added. "Our most difficult problem pertains to providing a ministry for the multiple-church charges."

Scholar Fights To Keep Pennsylvania Dutch Alive

(Editor's Note: Is Pennsylvania Dutch doomed to die, as some linguists think? Or is it enjoying a hearty renaissance, as indicated by no small weight of evidence? Whichever way you look at it, you'll be interested in the views of a 72-year-old scholar, retired from teaching but not from activity, who is crusading to keep the dialect alive. This AP Spotlight tells about it.

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
Associated Press Writer

HELLERTOWN, Pa. (AP) — For a language that some linguists believe to be dying out, Pennsylvania Dutch is certainly showing extraordinary vigor.

It could be, of course, that this is a false flush of health before dissolution. But certain scholars will give you a quick argument on that, saying the dialect is part of the American heritage and that this is a renewal of its robustness.

One who scoffs at the idea that the dialect is doomed is Robert Hoppes, 72-year-old retired teacher and a prime mover in a crusade to perpetuate Pennsylvania Dutch in speech and in print.

"He is wonderful sick." "Wonderful" is widely used in the sense of very, exceptional, etc. "Make the door open." "Eat your mouth empty once." "I'll eat up and down," meaning on the run.

Veteran Teacher

Hoppes, for 46 years a teacher, athletics coach and school principal, is himself of Pennsylvania Dutch descent.

No man to rest on his laurels, Hoppes didn't skip a beat in going from the job into retirement. He practically started another career. Going to bat for the integrity and durability of the Pennsylvania Dutch, he put together a primer proclaiming to everybody, "ier kenna ionna," meaning "you can learn."

The primer is widely used in Pennsylvania, New York State and the Middle West and to some extent in Canada. It is credited with a stimulation of interest in the dialect and a growth of classes studying it.

"This Dutch Dialect is part of our heritage," he said. "That is why so many groups have been organized in our area and even in other states, to perpetuate it."

Some have said that Pennsylvania Dutch is too parochial a speech, and have asked, "Who cares outside the Pennsylvania Dutch country?"

CIA Tries To Stop Book

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Two top officials of the Central Intelligence Agency have contacted a New York publishing house in an apparent effort to suppress or censor a book due to be published about U. S. secret intelligence operations, The Minneapolis Tribune and Des Moines Register reported Tuesday.

In a Washington story written by correspondent Charles W. Bailey, the Tribune said a Random House spokesman had confirmed that both CIA Director John A. McCone and the CIA Deputy director Lt. Gen. Marshall S. Carter had complained about the book, "The Invisible Government."

In New York, a spokesman for Random House said "As far as I know, the CIA has not been in touch with Random House."

The spokesman declined specific comment regarding the newspaper story.

Bailey quoted his Random House source, who asked that he not be identified, as having said: "It seemed to me that the purpose (of McCone and Carter) was either the suppression or the altering of the book we were about to publish." The objections, the source added, were on general grounds.

Authors of the book are Washington newsmen David Wise and Thomas Ross. It deals with secret operations of U. S. intelligence, including the CIA's role in the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba.

"We asked twice that they (McCone and Carter) give us a would violate any security classification of information. Random House said the book names no CIA agents."

Helicopter 'Detectives'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Bell Telephone Co. is turning to helicopters to help prevent the 14,000 cable damage calls it experienced last year. The firm said Wednesday that aerial inspection is expected to provide earlier detection of hazardous, natural conditions or human operations near cable sites. When a pilot spots people working dangerously near cables he will either land or drop a warning message. The system is being initiated in Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland and West Virginia by Bell's parent, American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

68 Eastburg Students Headed For College

EAST STROUDSBURG — James Werkheiser, guidance counselor at East Stroudsburg High School, announced yesterday 68 pupils of the graduating classes have been accepted in various schools.

Two Party Split

The sharply accented split in the Republican Party caused by the victory of conservative forces led by Senator Barry Goldwater over middle of the road and liberal Republicans revives again the old idea that there should be a radical realignment of political parties in America.

The two party system has proved itself the most stable form of political representation and debate in America.

But philosophical and political beliefs of Democrats and Republicans are so diverse and divided that a completely new alignment would make more sense.

There is a sharper and more understandable difference between liberals and conservatives today than there is between Democrats and Republicans.

There is less division within conservative and liberal ranks than there is within the Democratic and Republican parties.

What would be the basic ideals of the conservative and liberal parties?

President Lyndon B. Johnson would be the leader of the liberal party.

Basic liberal policies would include a strong federal government with federal solutions for many state and local problems.

They would favor strong federal civil rights legislation and enforcement, budget deficits if needed to keep federal spending high and unemployment low, "liberal" federal spending to keep the economy booming, trade and aid to Communist nations to wean them from Moscow, and coexistence with world

Communism while holding it within present boundaries.

Senator Barry Goldwater would be the leader of the conservative party.

Basic conservative policies would include stronger state and local government powers and action to solve most social, economic and political problems.

They would favor states rights over federal power, state enforcement of civil rights laws, no federal deficits and a reduced federal debt, action by private business to reduce unemployment, less federal spending, no trade or aid to Communist nations, and constant diplomatic, propaganda, and military action to contain and roll back Communist power.

Republicans and Democrats would be found in both new parties.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller, Republican, U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, Democrat, Senator Jacob Javits, Republican, and Senator William Fulbright, Democrat, would agree on most liberal policies.

Senator Harry Byrd, Democrat, and Senator John Tower, Republican, Senator Strom Thurmond, Democrat, and Senator Bourke Hickenlooper, Republican could agree on most conservative policies.

There would of course be middle of the roaders who today are half-Democrat and half-Republican in philosophy. There would be liberal and conservative wings with the liberal and conservative parties.

But the whole process of American campaigning, voting, and political debate might make a lot more sense.

Comment Of The Day

"If an alternate candidate—be it Governor Romney or somebody else—does not emerge by the end of this week, Sen. Goldwater will be nominated on the first ballot at San Francisco. He will have it locked up."

—Former Vice President Richard Nixon.

George Dixon

GOP Mainstream

WASHINGTON — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York is the fountainhead, it is not the only source, of the "mainstream of Republican thinking," which he insists Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona isn't in. However, it looks as if Goldwater would win the Republican Presidential nomination in a dry wash, but nevertheless wind up all wet.

"The mainstream of Republican thinking" may not have originated with Rockefeller, but he certainly made it such a turbulent body of water that no GOP leader but Goldwater seems disposed to risk taking an excursion on it.

Many undecided Republicans, who sort of feel up the creek, are asking about the mainstream, what it is, where it's located, and whether it's polluted. All these questions are easily answered, except the last. The mainstream of Republican thinking is where any GOP notable is standing while speaking. It is located on a high plain where it hasn't rained in four years, and it has more months than the Nile, or even Nasser.

The mainstream flows every four years, but like the Mississippi, it changes its course. It is sometimes a meandering stream, sometimes an inland waterway in arid states, sometimes a raging torrent, and—according to unpoetic Democrats who never exhort it to flow gently among its green banks, like Sweet Afton—it is often a trickle of water between two gutters.

The Democrats have nothing to compare with it. There is no mainstream of Democratic thinking, and, according to critics of belittling flocking, no thinking.

The Democrats would never speak out openly in meeting about a mainstream, because it implies that there are other streams. The Democrats realize that if they admitted to the same kind of division as the Republicans there'd be these four Democratic streams flowing in as many different directions:

1. The Southern Boys.
2. The Mountain Boys.

About Town

—By Gene Brown

With this column the regular author resumes his daily stint, which in some circles is not a matter for rejoicing.

From an article in the current Esquire about the trials of an army recruit: "As one sergeant was fond of pointing out: It's a question of mind over matter in being in the army; we don't mind and you don't matter."

From "They Said It" column in Sports Illustrated: "Maxie Rosenbloom, former light heavyweight champion, asked if he ever threw a fight: 'Never. Once some gamblers made me a very attractive offer to take a dive in the second round, but I turned them down. I couldn't go the distance."

The Rev. Dr. Felix B. Gear, of Decatur, Ga., newly elected moderator of the Southern Presbyterian Church, on his recreational activities: "I have hunted deer on occasion, but they were not aware of it."

In The Mail: Have just received a demanding note in the mail asking where we stand on birth control. Our stand is unequivocal: We are against anything that is un-American.

'A Perfect Fit'—If I Say So Myself'

The Pennsylvania Story

Record Comeuppance

By Mason Denison
HARRISBURG — The die has been cast insofar as Pennsylvania's lawmakers are concerned; either they have it or they don't!

The "it" in question refers not to any aesthetic attribute, but rather to a record of sorts to which they may point in the upcoming fall campaign for return to their Senate or House seat.

This year all 209 House seats are up for filling along with half of the fifty Senate seats.

Those lawmakers seeking return engagements on Capitol Hill in Pennsylvania's legislative branch—in theory—have a show running for them on the plus side, as opposed to the somewhat nebulous and head-scratching campaign wishes and promises to be offered by an opponent.

In other words, the record of the incumbent lawmaker could and should be quite a drawing card — if he has established any kind of record at all during his legislative tenure; it's something for voters to bite into which the inexperienced opponent obviously cannot hope to offer.

What then constitutes this "record"?

Actually there are several facets to be considered, broken down roughly into these categories: (1) attendance—has he been lousy, fair or excellent in attending legislative sessions, (2) how has he voted on statewide or for betterment-of-the-state-as-a-whole issues, in relation to his own personal, local constituency, (3) how has he stacked up in effectively arguing for or against issues that would affect his area in particular, and (4) how active has he been in working with his local constituency on non-legislative problems (with Highways Department, Forests and Waters, etc.)?

The answer to these points have already been decided by now insofar as the local lawmaker's record is concerned.

The 1964 legislative session is all but over and done with; the record must stand "as is."

Looking over the "judging" points one by one:

—Attendance, how do you size up this point? In neither House nor Senate is there such a thing as an "attendance role" for each day's sessions, thus the next best basis is whether the lawmaker in question is recorded as voting on roll calls for each day. (If he is recorded as having voted, in theory he was present.)

—Voting record on legislation. This can be a sticky one. The main point of concern is whether he went overboard in a selfish extreme to vote against a good-for-the-Commonwealth piece of legislation simply because of a possible negative reaction at home and a possible subsequent loss of local votes. (Somebody has to stand up and be counted!)

—Working for or against issues affecting his local area. This is perhaps the toughest area for a lawmaker, and for a lawmaker with any spark at all, most difficult of times to reconcile with his local constituents.

For example, do you vote for or against an increase in the liquor tax, with a distillery in your home area? The simple fact remains that an increase in state revenues is needed—but do you stand up for the overall picture, or confine it to strictly local consideration? (If the latter were the case, it's difficult to see how any legislation at all would be enacted!)

—Activity in behalf of local constituency. There are many, many areas in which lawmakers (as the local elected representatives of the people) can and do work in behalf of their folks at home—even though it has nothing to do with legislation or the Legislature.

Much of this is liaison work between local and state bodies—it may be between a local school district and the Department of Public Instruction, between a local municipality and the Department of Highways, between a local citizen group and the Department of Forests and Waters, etc.

The question in this case is whether the local lawmaker actually does work in behalf of his constituency on such issues—effectively and determinedly—or whether he simply comes up to with the remark: "Really, it has nothing to do with the Legislature; it's out of my orbit."

At this point the die has been cast on these criteria. The individual lawmakers have already made their record; now it's up to the voters they "represent!"

The Allen-Scott Report

RFK Push

Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Political intimates of Attorney General Robert Kennedy are passing the word that he wants the national convention to be "wide open" on the selection of vice president—for the express purpose of attempting to stampede that nomination for himself.

As indicated by these close lieutenants, a quiet but well organized and vigorous nationwide drive is under way to put over this backstage strategy.

Foremost among Kennedy partisans reputedly active in this plan are:

Senator "Ted" Kennedy, Mass., younger brother of attorney general; Stephen Smith, brother-in-law and under the late President the real boss of the Democratic National Committee; Joseph Tydings, former U. S. attorney who last month won the Maryland Democratic senatorial nomination in a resounding defeat of the regular party organization.

Also John Kenny, former Jersey City, N. J. mayor and a political power in Hudson County; Paul Corbin, Wis., former Kennedy henchman in the National Committee whom President Johnson personally ordered ousted early this year; California Assembly Speaker Jesse ("Big Boss") Unruh, who largely engineered the successful last-minute senate candidacy of Pierre Salinger, and Salinger, who was financed and counseled throughout his campaign by the attorney general — his one-time boss who prevailed on Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy to set aside her deep mourning long enough to endorse the one-time White House press secretary.

A key factor in the Attorney General's sub-rosa strategy is that around 50 per cent of the delegates to the August convention in Atlantic City were supporters of his late brother in Los Angeles in 1960.

Also a high percentage of state chairmen and national committeemen are Kennedy partisans and won office because of that.

There is also inside word that the Kennedy strategy includes maneuvering Senator "Ted" Kennedy into the spotlight role of keynoter of the national convention. It's being pointed out as very significant that in recent weeks the 32-year-old Bostonian has been making numerous speeches throughout the country.

Spilling the Beans — New Jersey's former Governor Robert Meyner, a last-ditch hold-out against the late President in the 1960 convention, has given the White House a fill-in on ex-Mayor Kennedy's undercover efforts to line up delegates for a "wide open" convention to put over "Bobby" Kennedy for vice president.

Meyner is strongly opposed to that. He is working closely with President Johnson to ensure his firm control of the convention.

Reports of brother-in-law Stephen Smith's activities to line up delegates have reached the White House from New York, Ohio and Michigan. According to these accounts, Smith had much to do with the recent ringing declaration of Peter Croty, upstate New York Democratic leader, urging "Bobby" as running mate. In California, "Big Boss" Unruh and Salinger are said to be similarly busy.

A particularly revealing tip-off of this backstage plan came from Maryland Senate nominee Tydings — who was appointed U. S. attorney by the Kennedy's expressly to build him up to seek the seat of Republican Senator J. Glenn Beall. During Tydings' stormy contest with the regular organization's candidate, he was importantly helped by "Ted" Kennedy.

Discussing the national convention with Senator Daniel Brewster, D-Md., a strong supporter, Tydings bluntly demanded control of the state's delegation. In effect, he asked for 51 per cent of the 48 delegates.

"It's only fair I be permitted to name a majority of the delegates," argued Tydings. "My smashing victory at the polls was more than a personal triumph. It was a resounding victory for new leadership in the party, for youth and for the principles and ideals the Kennedys represent."

"Are you saying that 25 of the 48 delegates should be selected by you?" asked Brewster, who nominally is Maryland's "favorite son" candidate. "If that's what you are after, it's ridiculous. It's traditional that state officials and members of Congress be on the delegation. That adds up to 24 delegates alone."

"I'm not objecting to that," said Tydings. "What I want is the right to name 25 of the delegates. I want control of the delegation so Maryland will be ready to support Attorney General Kennedy for vice president in an open convention."

"That's silly," snapped Brewster. "You really don't believe President Johnson is going to throw the choice of his running mate wide open, do you?"

"I'm merely saying," replied Tydings, "that Maryland must be ready for an open race for vice president, and I want control of the delegation. If I can't get that in an understanding with you, we will openly fight for it at the state convention on June 15."

"That's your privilege," retorted Brewster. "I will make no such deal, and that's final."

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

Land-Office Business

In 1812, the land office of the United States was set up. The function of this bureau was the management and disposal of lands owned by the government. At times the government would open up public land for settlement, and it was with the land office that the settlers had to file claims. During rushes, branch land offices were set up in the areas to be settled. Business was brisk at these offices until the land rush was over. From this situation arose the expression "land-office business," meaning brisk and extensive business.

Poet's Corner

To A First Class Scout

There is a man with us tonight whom all of you must know,
Altho' I'll keep him nameless until his worth I'll show,
It's difficult to name a date when first he helped us out,
For suddenly, he jumped right in to become a first class scout.

He left his wife, his home and kids. She wondered what to do,
For everytime she needed him it seemed the huge blue jeep.
The jeep was seen from time to time in weather dry or damp,
He'd take the boys' equipment too, and spend the night in camp.

He fast became to all the boys a friend and leader too,
And scouting found a master in build its strength anew.
He gave up his vacation with his family every year,
And took the boys to Weygant along with all their gear.

They hiked and camped and learned to cook to swim and be good scouts,
While twin trudged along with them and settled all their doubts.
A snake bit him, he did not care tho' Mary nearly died,
For he was heart and soul in Scouts and never left their side.

He made the boys good citizens and our town owes him a lot,

And all his efforts, hours spent will not soon be forgot.
So let's have twin stand right up and take a little bow.
For we would like to thank him tho' we're not sure we know how.

Perhaps, we'll sing a song to him all Scouts and families too,
So he will know, we're thankful to a master tried and true.

Contentment

I search my soul each day,
To find a more understanding me.
I try so hard to acclaim,
The things that set me free.

God granted me a rich, full life
With loved ones oh, so dear.
May He bestow His kindness
And keep them ever near.

Wealth and fame I have not seen,
But what could matter less.
All the riches of a lifetime,
I now possess.

I try to live my life complete
And do the deeds I should.
I search my heart each day
And night

For all the things so good.
I take this quiet moment
To thank Thee Dear God
For above

For granting unto me
Your understanding love

Faith Of The Just

If I were a boy of a family large,
(Nine, or seven or five),
And "science" and "culture" had warned of a scourge
—There are too many children alive—

I'd ponder and wonder from dusk until morn
If I might be one that should not have been born.

I'd look in the mirror and then try to smile,
'God gave me this face,' I would think;
And though I have grown, there's still many a mile
With springs of clear water to drink;

And the plains and the prairies where cowboys are few
Must hold something special, or amazingly new.
And I've read that the ocean is brimming with food
Of varieties never explored.

When God made the sea He exclaimed "It was good!"
And bins by the hundred are stored
With grain — on luxurious farms, I've been told,
(Am I a delinquent, and being too bold?)

But let me say this, I love the old earth;
And some of the people are kind.
When they look at a guy and mention the worth
That is hidden oft-times in the mind,

And the heart and the soul of a poor, scrawny youth —
In a world where the Master taught justice and truth.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Calories Count And Mount

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.
Off again, on again, off again, is the recurring theme of the weight reducer.

However one is tempted into disbelieving it, calories unquestionably do count.

Calories count and mount, until the golem of obesity hurls from the mirror the reflection of a puffed face, hanging jaws and multiple chins.

Armed with determination, a guide book of calories, a fixed, measured diet, and a vision of a svelte summer figure, the hopeful now begins this process of dieting.

Weighty Question

Why do some people find that the gratifying, but temporary, loss of weight is so often followed by a slow, progressive and discouraging return to the "starting gate" of peak weight?

The answer undoubtedly lies in the complexities of the individual's emotional makeup. There is more than sufficient evidence that the appetite is strongly influenced and often controlled by one's emotional state.

On A Full Stomach
People with anxieties, tensions, fatigue, boredom, nervousness and loneliness find welcome relief in the comfort of a full stomach.

The gratification by "food addiction" sometimes represents a handy substitute for the unfulfilled desires for friendship, recognition and devotion.

For these people, the early stage of rigid dieting frequently is accompanied by irritability, restlessness and even depression. Actually, these symptoms may reflect the inner tensions that are no longer being relieved by the satisfaction of overeating.

Temporary disappointment when a diet is broken is understandable. But it must not be considered a sign of great personal weakness or inadequacy. Just try again!

Overly-Ambitious Goal
Sometimes one sets goals that are too ambitious. Then, if a great deal of weight is not lost quickly, there is a temptation to adopt a "what's-the-use?" attitude. That is why professional guidance is so important in weight-reducing programs.

Doctors, diets and drugs, combined with psychological support and emotional understanding, make weight reduction "palatable" as well as possible.

"Shortcuts" such as miracle diets, crash diets or eccentric combinations of foods should be avoided.

The Hard Facts
Thousands of people have tried scores of diet diets before learning these simple, hard facts of weight control:

You gain weight because you eat too much. Your body needs a certain amount of calories for fuel. The excess calories add to your storehouse of fat. When you stay within the calories advised by your doctor, the extra pounds will go.

But you must count calories. Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

SU Board Adopts Budget; Increases Teachers Pay

STROUDSBURG — Stroud Union School District's Board last night formally adopted a $1,808,214 budget for the 1964-65 year and set up a new salary schedule, increasing teachers pay.

The major increase in the budget is the $150,637 slated for salary increases for the regular secondary and elementary teachers, raising the minimum teacher salary to $4,700.

At PM Jointure Session

Eight Mothers Protest Removal Of Principal

SWIFTWATER — A delegation of angry mothers from Barrett Township attended the Pocono Mountain Joint School Committee meeting last night to protest the removal of Miss Eife as principal of the Barrett and Pocono Elementary Centers.

While the board acted sympathetically to the eight mothers, it approved the naming of David Guthrie, a remedial reading instructor, to replace Miss Eife.

Mrs. Mary Coffman, acting as spokesman for the group, told the board:

"This change is reflecting on our children. You are changing us in mid-stream. Miss Eife has been good to us and we would like to see her continue."

Last Official Bangor Joint Parley Held

BANGOR — The last official regular meeting of the joint Committee of the Bangor Area Joint School System was held in the conference rooms of the new high school last night when the class of 1964, numbering 179 persons, was approved for graduation.

The schools on July 1, 1964, will become a single unit under reorganization in Northampton County.

Wilmer Miller, president, conducted the meeting and the class was presented for approval by Dr. Trevor Williams, high school principal, through Dr. S. William Ricker, superintendent of the system.

Dr. Ricker reported that nine classes of summer school with 130 pupils will be held at the secondary level, while 12 classes for elementary pupils, numbering 195, will start on June 22 and end July 31.

He also spoke of a recent conference with parents of McKinley School children informing the parents of the fact, that for better educational reasons and smaller classes, pupils that would attend the fifth and sixth grades from that school next year will attend the Washington School rather than the Columbus School.

Ricker reported that Donald Luria, of the Lehigh-Northampton Planning Commission, who is conducting sessions with enumerators for census, indicated that the program is working out satisfactorily.

It was also noted by Ricker that Dr. O. H. Aurand of the Educational Research Service, presently conducting a study of the local schools, is preparing a summary report.

George Ott, vocational agriculture teacher, was granted permission to attend the Future Farmers of America Conference at Penn State University, June 17 through 19.

Miss Joan Rehling, of S. Third St., Bangor, was named an elementary physical education teacher at a salary of $4,700. She is a graduate of Bangor Area High School and East Stroudsburg State College.

Also hired was Miss Kathleen Sabatine of Bangor as an instructor in junior high school English at a salary of $4,700. She is a graduate of East Stroudsburg State College.

Summer school tuition for out-of-district pupils was set at $20.

Kenneth L. Fritz was named as director of the senior high school band on a temporary basis. He will also have charge of the music classes in the summer school.

Clark P. Clever submitted his resignation as a junior high school science teacher.

The board approved the formation of a Ninth Grade Cheerleading Squad in the junior high school. A limit of $100 for uniforms was established.

Mrs. Kathryn Smith, school nurse, was granted an extension of sick leave.

A matter of decision on the vocational Technical School was referred to the interim committee.

Bills totaling $89,571.25 were approved for payment and a balance of $110,123.82 reported in the general fund of the joint district.

starting in September.

The board, meeting in special session in Stroud Union High's library, also approved resolutions keeping the same millages and per capita taxes for the coming year.

A motion to adopt the record budget was made by director, John Baymor. It was seconded by Ray Roberts. Unanimous approval was given by the attending members of the board.

Unanimous approval also was given the new salary schedule, upping salaries of teachers with Bachelor of Arts or Science degrees $600. Baymor made the motion and Dr. John Linn, board secretary, seconded.

Another segment of the pay raise was also put in motion by Linn and seconded by Ray Price Jr. This was also given full support.

Atty. Edward Williams, board solicitor, read four resolutions preceding the adoption of a 38-mill occupational tax for each dollar assessed. Roberts made the motion to approve the resolution, while Mrs. Ruth Hauser, seconded, followed by unanimous action.

The adoption of the 39-mill real estate tax was made on a Baymor motion and a Roberts second. Like the others the full board concurred. This means $3.90 on each $100 assessment.

Two $5 per capita taxes were approved. One was authorized by the School Code, Public Law 30. The other comes under Act 481, okaying the collection and assessment of taxes for general revenue. This the same as last year.

The new increase for teachers means if a teacher is getting $5,400 this year and owns a BA degree he or she automatically will receive $6,000 during 1964. This keeps going up until she reaches $7,200, which, according to the schedule would be in the 1967-68 year.

Also a teacher with a master's degree automatically gets $500 more, or he or she made add $100 yearly by securing six credits during that span.

Other excerpts from the salary schedule shows:

"1. Teachers of special education shall receive an additional $200 per year.

"2. Chairman of departments shall receive $400 additional per year.

"3. Stroud Union School District pays Blue Cross and Blue Shield fees for employees. Pays group life insurance coverage of $3,000 per employee.

"4. Teachers holding a Standard Certificate shall receive a maximum of $6,300 per year. For each six semester hours of additional work, $100 will be added to this maximum until $6,800 is reached.

"5. Teachers holding a Bachelor's Degree shall receive a maximum of $7,200 per year. When a holder of a Bachelor's Degree completes six semester hours of graduate work toward a Master of Arts or Master of Science Degree, $100 shall be added to their next year's salary and for each subsequent six semester hours, $100 shall be added until 30 hours or a Master's Degree is attained.

"6. Teachers holding a Master of Arts Degree shall receive a maximum of $7,700.

When a holder of a MA completes six semester hours of work in a graduate school within his or her field of certification and his assigned teaching subject, $100 will be added to next year's teaching salary. A total of $500 may be attained in this manner."

A first year teacher will start in Stroud Union's District at $4,700. This year the starting teacher who received $4,200 this year will automatically jump to $4,800 in 1964-65.

Uphold Move

C. Willis Dunlap, supervising principal, and James Davenport, elementary supervisor, both denied this charge.

"Guthrie has 17 years teaching experience and has been our remedial reading instructor for the past four years and has done a terrific job for us. In view of the new emphasis we are putting on reading he will be a terrific improvement," Davenport said.

Davenport daily stated there were no personalities involved in the move. He said it was being done to give Guthrie more time to administer the elementary remedial reading program. He said Guthrie will be removed from teaching by the change.

Guthrie was appointed acting principal for one year at a salary of $7,500.

Miss Eife was selected to act as principal last year and replaced Lloyd Peak, who was given a leave of absence to further his education.

Last night Peak's name was submitted for another year's leave and provoked a discussion over the district's policy on such leaves.

John Montgomery, committee member from Pocono Township, voted against giving Peak an additional year's leave and told the committee it should have a firm commitment starting that such a teacher will definitely return to the district.

The committee went against Montgomery, however, and granted Peak's leave, with the proviso Dunlap look into the district policy granting leaves. Peak is drawing no pay while on leave.

In other action the committee approved hiring the following teachers and salaries:

—Urenus Kirkwood, for a one-year term at $4,500; Mrs. Doris Gessner, one-year at $5,100; Arthur Gray, permanent position at $4,800; Mrs. Ora Geer, permanent at $5,100.

Our children are being used as guinea pigs."

Unanimous approval also was given the new salary schedule, upping salaries of teachers with Bachelor of Arts or Science degrees $600. Baymor made the motion and Dr. John Linn, board secretary, seconded.

Another segment of the pay raise was also put in motion by Linn and seconded by Ray Price Jr. This was also given full support.

Chief Seese Urges Crime Precaution

EAST STROUDSBURG — Interested in discouraging burglars and prowlers while on summer vacation?

Travis G. Seese, East Stroudsburg chief of police yesterday made the following recommendations and suggestions for crime prevention when leaving home for the evening or for an extended period of time:

Use good locks; leave one or two lamps burning during the evening hours by hooking them up with an automatic timer or making arrangements with a neighbor to look after your property while you are away; use safety latches on all windows.

Also, cancel all daily deliveries; make arrangements to have your newspaper forwarded; provide postal arrangements; rent a safety deposit box for storage of valuables; and notify police when you are leaving and when you expect to return.

Thomas L. Kistler, mayor of East Stroudsburg, said, "We are fortunate in having a low crime rate in East Stroudsburg. And in the few crimes that are committed, the East Stroudsburg police department has quickly apprehended the offenders."

Unanimous approval also was given the new salary schedule, upping salaries of teachers with Bachelor of Arts or Science degrees $600. Baymor made the motion and Dr. John Linn, board secretary, seconded.

The adoption of the 39-mill real estate tax was made on a Baymor motion and a Roberts second. Like the others the full board concurred. This means $3.90 on each $100 assessment.

Two $5 per capita taxes were approved. One was authorized by the School Code, Public Law 30. The other comes under Act 481, okaying the collection and assessment of taxes for general revenue. This the same as last year.

The new increase for teachers means if a teacher is getting $5,400 this year and owns a BA degree he or she automatically will receive $6,000 during 1964. This keeps going up until she reaches $7,200, which, according to the schedule would be in the 1967-68 year.

Also a teacher with a master's degree automatically gets $500 more, or he or she made add $100 yearly by securing six credits during that span.

Other excerpts from the salary schedule shows:

"1. Teachers of special education shall receive an additional $200 per year.

"2. Chairman of departments shall receive $400 additional per year.

"3. Stroud Union School District pays Blue Cross and Blue Shield fees for employees. Pays group life insurance coverage of $3,000 per employee.

"4. Teachers holding a Standard Certificate shall receive a maximum of $6,300 per year. For each six semester hours of additional work, $100 will be added to this maximum until $6,800 is reached.

"5. Teachers holding a Bachelor's Degree shall receive a maximum of $7,200 per year. When a holder of a Bachelor's Degree completes six semester hours of graduate work toward a Master of Arts or Master of Science Degree, $100 shall be added to their next year's salary and for each subsequent six semester hours, $100 shall be added until 30 hours or a Master's Degree is attained.

"6. Teachers holding a Master of Arts Degree shall receive a maximum of $7,700.

When a holder of a MA completes six semester hours of work in a graduate school within his or her field of certification and his assigned teaching subject, $100 will be added to next year's teaching salary. A total of $500 may be attained in this manner."

A first year teacher will start in Stroud Union's District at $4,700. This year the starting teacher who received $4,200 this year will automatically jump to $4,800 in 1964-65.

Unanimous approval also was given the new salary schedule, upping salaries of teachers with Bachelor of Arts or Science degrees $600. Baymor made the motion and Dr. John Linn, board secretary, seconded.

Another segment of the pay raise was also put in motion by Linn and seconded by Ray Price Jr. This was also given full support.

Atty. Edward Williams, board solicitor, read four resolutions preceding the adoption of a 38-mill occupational tax for each dollar assessed. Roberts made the motion to approve the resolution, while Mrs. Ruth Hauser, seconded, followed by unanimous action.

Adkins Winner Of Rotary's '64 Gross Memorial Award

MT. POCONO — Michael B. Adkins is the 1964 winner of the Gross Memorial Award presented annually by the Mt. Pocono Rotary Club. The award was presented at a recent Rotary meeting.

Adkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Adkins of Henryville, RD 1, was presented the award for displaying "Outstanding student competence in shop practice." He received a $50 savings bond and an achievement certificate for his efforts.

The Gross Memorial Award was established by Rotarians and friends in memory of Edwin Gross, Mt. Pocono Rotarian and an outstanding building contractor in the mountain area, said Truman J. Newhart, secretary.

In other Rotary business, it was announced that installation of officers will be held June 23. Al Stets, first vice president is in charge of installation ceremonies.

During June, Rotary members will view two films. The first entitled "The Unchained Goddess," which concerns weather. The second film "Rendezvous in the Reef," is an underwater film about tropical sea life.

Council Head In Roseto Jailed

EASTON — Leonard Romano, president of the Roseto Borough Council was sent to Northampton County Prison yesterday for from 30 days to one year after pleading no defense to a gambling charge.

Romano, who lives at 506 Garibaldi Ave., Roseto, was sentenced by Judge Clinton Budd Palmer on charges of selling up and maintaining a gambling place, bookmaking and pool selling.

The council president was arrested last March 14 at his home in a raid carried out by state police and Northampton County detectives.

Judge Palmer also fined Romano $500 and said he will be eligible for parole in 30 days provided his fine is paid.

Kiwanians Learn About Yugoslavia

STROUDSBURG — A quick trip through Yugoslavia marked the Kiwanis Club meeting yesterday at the Penn-Stroud Hotel when slides of their recent trip were shown by Ruth Brown with Bobby Westbrook as commentator.

"Yugoslavia is a country with seven borders, six republics, five nationalities, four religions, three languages, two alphabets and one leader," Mrs. Westbrook said in outlining how each of these arithmetical factors have affected the country.

Successive invasion of its borders by Germany and Hungary from the north; by the Ottoman Empire from the east; by Greeks, Romans, Italians and French from the south and west have left marks in the buildings and in the cultural heritage of its people, she said.

Republics At Odds
"The six republics are more at odds in temperament and history than the original 13 colonies of the United States, and the five nationalities also have their differences," she added.

"Religious wars haven't helped peaceful development," she said. "With Roman Catholics and Orthodox Catholics fighting the Turks over 500 years and each other in between."

One unifying factor is the present power and popularity of Tito. Others are the increasing number of public schools, the work corps for school drop-outs, and army service where different nationalities are brought together, she said.

The colored slides shown by Mrs. Brown illustrated the wide variation in climate and geography with fjords and flat plains, snow-capped mountains and tropical Adriatic Coast areas compressed within a small area.

Flash Floods Hit Montana

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Dambusting flash floods swept down from Montana's mountains Monday, killing at least five persons and causing millions of dollars damage.

Entire towns were evacuated as water three to six feet deep poured down streets into homes and businesses. Numerous bridges were washed out, roads were flooded and families were isolated.

He was a son of the late George and Charlotte Ayers and was born in Malden, Mass.

Mr. Ayers was a member of the Presbyterian Church of the Mountain in Delaware Water Gap.

He was also a veteran of World War I, a member of Lancaster Lodge, 54, F & A M, Lincoln, Neb.; American Legion Post, 28, Toconoma Park, Md.; Thomas P. Lambert Post, VFW, 2540 of Stroudsburg, and Motor Club of Northeastern Pennsylvania.

He is survived by his wife, Charlotte; two step-sons, Frank Campo and John Campo of Los Angeles and one grandson.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 8 p. m. in the Dunkelberger and Westbrook Funeral Home in Stroudsburg with the Rev. Joseph L. Tropansky officiating.

Cremation will be held in Maple Hill Crematory in Wilkes-Barre.

Masonic services will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. Friends may call Friday after 7 p. m.

Vienna's Spanish Riding School preserves a fragile but precious tradition of horsemanship that was common to the Greek world of Xenophon.

Local Residents At Rotary Parley

TORONTO, Ont., Canada—In Toronto for the 1964 convention of Rotary International are Mr. and Mrs. W. C. G. Peterson, of 931 Wallace St., Stroudsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Peeney, of East Stroudsburg. They arrived Saturday, June 6.

GOP Platform Backs Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican platform will support the civil rights law Congress is expected to pass, but will not endorse what the platform committee chairman describes as "inverse discrimination."

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin said in an interview he sees no reason why Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona—or any other Republican who wins

The Rotary convention began June 7 and closes June 11. It has brought to Toronto more than 14,000 Rotarians and members of their families from 128 countries in all parts of the world.

the party's presidential nomination—could not support such a civil rights plank. By "inverse discrimination," Laird said, he means such things as transporting white children out of their neighborhoods to alter the racial ratio of schools in predominantly Negro areas. Mandatory quotas of jobs to be filled only by Negroes might be another example, he indicated.

Among the featured speakers on the Rotary convention program are Lester B. Pearson, Prime Minister of Canada; Carlos P. Romulo, former ambassador to the UN and new president of the University of the Philippines; and Clinton P. Anderson, U. S. senator from New Mexico and a past president of Rotary International. Highlights of the convention entertainment program is an Ice Revue on Wednesday evening (June 10) at Toronto's world-famous Maple Leaf Gardens. Its cast includes champion Canadian skaters and 300 other performers. Earlier on Sunday (June 7), the Petersons saw a musical show with an all-star cast produced specially for the 55th annual Rotary convention.

In the House of Friendship, a traditional feature of Rotary conventions, the Petersons relaxed with thousands of other Rotary families from Holland, Japan, Korea, Germany, Sweden.

Mr. Peterson is a member of the Rotary Club of Stroudsburg and is attending his first Rotary convention.

Rotary in Stroudsburg is linked with 11,800 Rotary clubs with 653,000 Rotarians in 125 countries around the globe.

Jaycees Up Drive For Workshop

STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Mountain Junior Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday its drive to raise $50,000 for the Burnley Workshop in East Stroudsburg is continuing at a rapid pace with hopes of reaching the goal in the near future.

Howard Coslett and Edwin Krawitz, co-chairmen of the drive, said area business leaders have been co-operative in lending their assistance to helping the county's mentally and physically handicapped.

The Jaycees also announced plans are being made for a tenth anniversary dance. Irving Karpe, dance committee chairman, said a date and place for the celebration will be announced.

Lineage of the common cat can be traced to ancient Egypt. Cats spread to Europe about 700-600 B.C., perhaps in the ships of Phoenician traders, and mated with the European wildcat. The new breed flourished and became domesticated.

Just Between Us —

Add small world department: at the Kiwanis Club meeting waiting to show our slides of Yugoslavia, I learned that President Bill Walters had been in Yugoslavia once — for about three hours.

During the war he was flying missions out of Bari, Italy, and they were told that if they were shot down over Yugoslavia there was a secret air base manned by the underground where they could land and find protection, but couldn't be assured of getting out again.

With his plane badly shot up, they found and landed on the secret field, had their plane repaired and flew out again, which is one way to visit Yugoslavia. What I need right now is a secret landing field in case I get shot by irate brides.

With the rush of June weddings the backing of wedding stories and pictures is mounting higher so that I seem to be continually surrounded by pretty brides looking at me accusingly. Maybe by the Fourth of July we'll get squared away.

Meanwhile there is also a backlog of post-graduation engagements, too, which with the Laurel Blossom Princesses arriving today and the horses on Saturday makes you feel that Spring, like the laurel, is busting out all over the Poconos.

Spring and summer card parties and final board meetings and graduations — and just when is this nice long leisurely summer lying going to start around here? Not until after Tuesday, anyway, when there's a home kitchen tour in Paradise.

Scheller, Band Veteran, 89 Years Old

Kresgeville — Joseph Scheller is celebrating his 89th birthday June 11.

He is one of the few survivors of the Kresgeville Band which was considered one of the best in the country. Scheller was the first caretaker of the local cemetery and served three terms as road supervisor of Polk Twp.

By 1850, large-scale iron casting permitted mass production of everything from egg-beaters to washing machines.

Miss Leona L. Getz Bride In Kunkletown Ceremony

Kunkletown — Miss Leona Lillian Getz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon L. Getz, of Kunkletown RD 1, was married on Saturday, May 16, at 3 p.m. in St. Matthew's Union Church, Kunkletown, to Wayne William Smith.

Mrs. Wayne William Smith (Lawrence Studio)

Kunkletown, to Wayne William Smith. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steward A. Smith, of Kunkletown. Rev. John P. Kline performed the ceremony with Mrs. Martin Eck as organist and Leon Nicholas as soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organza with a scoop neck-line, long sleeves and fitted bodice with controlled fullness in the skirt. Symmetrical appliques of Alencon lace and seed pearls decorated the dress which ended in a full chapel train. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion fell from a double crown of pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade of white carnations and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Delbert Zacharias of Kresgeville as matron of honor wore a dress of pale green nylon over tulle with matching headpiece and carried a cascade of frosted green carnations. The bridesmaids, Miss Sharon Getz of Kresgeville and Miss Mae Kleintop of Saylorsburg, wore gowns of the same style in pale yellow and pale blue and carried cascades of frosted yellow and blue carnations.

Flower girl was Debra Ann William Berger of Kresgeville, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Dwight Redline and Robert Doshimer, both of Kunkletown. Steve Berger was ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a blue dress with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink dress with pink accessories and a white orchid corsage.

A reception was held at the Trachsville Firehouse before the couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada.

The bride is a graduate of Pleasant Valley High School and Allentown Business School. She is employed at the Monroe County Co-op Dairy in Brodheadsville.

Her husband is also a graduate of Pleasant Valley High School and is employed at the New Jersey Zinc Co., Palmerton. They will reside in Brodheadsville.

HAIR, HAIR, MY DEARS!

With long gowns back in style for high fashion evenings, many short haired girls are wondering how to wear their locks to present a slightly more formal appearance. Hair pieces, of course, are the answer—but, let's face it, a rather expensive one. Genuine, first quality hair in a "switch" about 17 inches long costs approximately one hundred dollars. For this reason, many women have "switched" to vinyl, and some of it is amazingly like real hair.

Some of this "hair" may be seen right now in our Wyckoff Millinery Department (2nd floor) in long braids, Figure 8 chignons, and buns, all priced at 5.00. And believe me, the women are buying them with whoops of delight! They have reason to be pleased too, for one of my friends who wears a gleaming salt and pepper top knot tells me she purchased hers at an out-of-town store for 17.50. It is lovely, beyond doubt, and has been colored to be an exact match of the shading in her own hair. But there is a great deal of difference between 17.50 and 5.00... and the "hair" we are selling looks less coarse, less shiny and even more natural, than hers.

One of the girls-about-town who had hair almost to her waist not too many years ago and is struggling to get her locks past the awkward stage of growth right now, was among the first to rush in and select a chignon. Her hair is brown, and was easily matched from the wide selection here. Still another woman selected one in a shade much lighter than her own "brown with gray," took it to her hair dresser and had it streaked with brown. It now matches perfectly.

All in all, these David and David (amen hair pieces, are an inexpensive way to experiment with new hair styles, in a day when the wiglet, extra curl, and pony tail are accessories as important and familiar to most women as their lipstick and mascara.

ALL AROUND WYCKOFF'S—

Have you noticed the brand new glamor that came to our copperware from Iran with a good buffing? Some like these grand copper pieces to look old; others prefer them bright and shining. Now that I've seen them both ways, I vote with the latter group!... At last I know the name for the large urns of pewter, which are really a pewter-over copper. This is Damascus ware—a Biblical name taking one back to the Biblical land from which they come. There are a number of pieces marked half price in our International Gift Center... "Funflowers" is the name for our delightful new Love Pat compacts. They are large and round—a plastic that closes with self knobs at the top, like a child's purse. The colors are chartreuse, yellow, blue, and bright orange, and the puffs inside have a top-piece of silk in brilliant colors that blend with the case itself. These are 2.75—Funflowers for sun-flowers or "sun followers" of summer... Revlon lipstick are available in the same colorful cases, packaged in darling trios, also at 2.75. There are three basic color groups; medium pale pastel and light. A set of these, and a woman can "play up" to any costume change whatever shade her apparel may be.

Federation New Goal For Juniors

Canadensis — Members of the Barrett Junior Women's Club voted to apply to the Senior Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs for sponsorship to become members of the Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs at the meeting Thursday in Hillside Lodge.

Mrs. William Hannas, president of the county federation, and Mrs. Robert Hoffmann, junior advisor and second vice president of the federation, were guests for an informal discussion meeting with the Barrett Juniors.

After a discussion with the county representatives, the juniors agreed to petition the senior club to act as sponsor for their entrance into the county organization.

Prior to the business session, Mrs. Dale Price, outgoing president, officiated at a candlelight installation ceremony, for the new officers. She charged each officer with the duties of office for the coming year and each received a peppermint carnation corsage.

Mrs. Judy Leister, new president, took the gavel from Mrs. Price and presided at the meeting. Other officers to receive the charge of office were, Mrs. Richard Kice, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Besecker, second vice president; Mrs. Carole Weidner, recording secretary; Mrs. Gerald Williams, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Edward Bevan, treasurer.

Mrs. Besecker announced that she will accompany Miss Patricia Lee Falcinelli, current Miss Poconos, to the West Chester state Miss America preliminary. The two-night affair will be held Friday and Saturday. The club, as sponsors, will attend the rehearsal Saturday and the final program Saturday night.

Mrs. Kice was appointed as chairman of the Barrett Community Pool committee with Mrs. W. Roy Williams, Mrs. Bevan and Mrs. Joseph A. Bender, Jr. as members. The

Guerilla Raids

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Informants said Tuesday that Chinese Nationalist guerrillas have staged their first raid in North China proper, striking near Tsing tao 750 miles north of Formosa.

The sources said the guerrillas went ashore in a storm June 2 and fought for 35 minutes with Chinese Communist troops. They claimed the guerrillas inflicted more than 30 casualties and a roster of one killed and three wounded.

The Pocono Mountain Junior Chamber of Commerce has pledged to collect $50,000 for the workshop. This money, according to Kahl will be spent over a period of time and used in any one year.

Four U. S. Players Alive In British Amateur Golf

GANTON, England (AP)—Four Americans — three quite elderly as golfers go — were left in the British Amateur Championship at the end of the third round Wednesday as the field was reduced to the last 32.

They were, in order of age, Bob Sweeney, 52, a silver-haired Palm Beach, Fla., socialite who won the title in 1937; Dale Morey, 44, a former Walker Cup player and one-time professional from High Point, N.C.; John Thornton, also 44 of Rochester, N.Y.; and Jimmy Boswick, 24, of Jericho, N.Y., a stranger to big-time tournament golf.

Their hopes of going much farther appeared slim in a field that still included most of Britain's top players, headed by defending champion Mike Lunt, 1961 champion Mike Bonallack, and three-time winner Joe Carr of Ireland.

Morey, who plays Bonallack in the fourth round Thursday, won convincingly from 22-year-old Eddie Shamash, 3 and 1, and saw himself as the chief hope of the Americans.

Sweeney, who might have found it hard to play two matches in one day over the 6,824-yard, par 36-35-71 Ganton course, got a break when his second round opponent, John Tweedy of England, withdrew because of illness after playing one hole. Then he disposed of another American, Joe King of Anniston, Ala., 4 and 2 in the third round.

Boswick had to play two long matches, winning from J.E. Lisker of England 1 up and from Graham Booth of England 3 and 1. Thornton, who already had plane reservations to go home Thursday for his youngest son's 10th birthday, defeated Mike Pearson, a British internationalist, 3 and 1, and changed his plans.

1000-Yard Pro Grid Great Calls Blocking Important

MENASHA, Wis. (AP)—Beat the Panthers, the first National Football League ball carrier to gain more than 1,000 yards in a season, says pro backs may have an easier time hitting the charmed mark today but two major factors still are a must.

"It takes two things above all others to make a 1,000-yarder," Feathers said after induction with 10 others into the National 1,000-yard Club Foundation Tuesday night.

"Avoid injuries," he said. "A back must be fortunate enough to avoid injuries and he must be fortunate enough to have good blocking," the former Chicago Bear halfback said. "When I gained 1,004 yards back in 1931 I was healthy all the way and had the greatest blocker who ever lived—Bronko Nagurski."

"Whichever way Nagurski knocked them, I cut into the opening. I consider him just about the most powerful man ever to play pro football." Feathers, now an assistant coach at Wake Forest, was an NFL rookie out of Tennessee when he set the record.

Feathers noted that the pass has opened up pro defenses more than in his playing days. And he noted that present day players do not have to play on defense as well as offense.

Four S. U. Ballplayers Get Tryouts

STROUDSBURG — At least four players of Stroud Union's championship baseball team will attend a tryout camp sponsored by the Pittsburgh Pirates June 23 at Hetherington.

Those who accepted invitations are pitcher Fred Frantz, shortstop Glen Bixling, second baseman Tom Moreken and outfielder Dave Pierson.

Brown was the only one unable to be present at the first annual dinner of the foundation, founded by a group of Neenah-Menasha businessmen to honor 1,000-yarders and raise funds for youth organizations in the area.

Blocker Loses

George Blocker, the clouting Army corporal from Jal, N.M., who didn't lose a hole in the first two rounds, was dropped by Bryan Malone of Ireland, Malone, 26, of Ireland champion, won four of the last five holes for a 2-up victory.

Pat Foy Brady, 28-year-old redhead from Raleigh, N.C., scored the tournament's biggest upset in a morning second round match when he beat Scotland's Ronnie Shadle 1 up. Shadle was the tournament's second seeded player behind Lunt. But the American couldn't hold his pace in the afternoon and was beaten 2 and 1 by Peter Flaherty, English-born son of an Irish international golfer.

'Smart' Takes New England Handicap Run

BOSTON (AP)—Smart, a 3-1 shot owned by the Christiana Stable, staged a nighty stretch run Wednesday to win the $55,200-added Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

The 5-year-old chestnut, ridden by veteran Eldon Nelson, went under the wire a head in front of Townsend B. Martin's Sunrise County with W. H. Grindol's Steel Viking taking the show spot.

Mrs. J. D. Alexander's Saldam, the favorite of the crowd, finished last in the six-horse field.

Smart negotiated the 1 1/2 miles over a fast track in 2:01 1-5.

Saldam, ridden by Belmont Stakes winner Manuel Ycaza and top weighted at 117 pounds, wilted during the run for the wire.

Sunrise County, making a return to the races this spring after being sidelined with a broken foot bone, responded to jockey Bill Hartack's handling in the stretch to take a brief lead but was unable to withstand Smart's stretch charge.

Smart's victory was a 1-2-3 finish. The favorite of the crowd, finished last in the six-horse field.

S. F., Cards Split; McCovey Clouts HR

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Glen Hobbie allowed only two hits—both in the first inning—and pitched his new St. Louis Cardinals teammates to a 2-1 victory over National League leading San Francisco Wednesday after the Giants had won the opener 3-0.

The Giants captured the opener behind the combined four-hit pitching of Bob Hendley and Gaylord Perry while slump-ridden Willie McCovey provided the key hit, a two-run homer.

Then, in the nightcap, Hobbie took over and got all the support he needed from a pair of run-producing singles by Bill White.

Yanks, Bosox Split In High Scoring Tilts

BOSTON (AP)—Home runs by Roger Maris, Tony Kubek and Tom Tresh powered the New York Yankees to a 10-6 victory over Boston Wednesday night after the Red Sox won the opener of the day-night doubleheader 7-6 in 10 innings.

Maris' homer, his ninth, put the Yankees ahead 5-4 in the fifth. Then after Boston grabbed a 6-5 lead on Lee Thomas' two-run homer in the fifth, New York came back for two runs in the sixth.

Back to back home runs by Tony Conigliaro and Dick Williams gave the Red Sox a victory in the day game.

Olympics To Russia?

By William B. Dickinson, Jr.
Editorial Research
Sports Writer

Editor's Note: Olympic trials for America's track and field team will be held in New York City, July 3 and 4.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The 18th summer games of the modern Olympics, to be held in Tokyo this October, will be widely viewed as a major test of the relative athletic prowess of the United States and the Soviet Union.

All but forgotten will be the words of Baron Pierre de Coubertin, the French nobleman who revived the Olympics in 1896: "The important thing in the Olympic games is not to win, but to take part." His concept of the games as a vehicle for international understanding has been strained by the modern tendency to treat them as grist for political propaganda.

But the fortunes of nations in athletic competition do give some indication of their devotion to ideals of physical fitness and excellence in sports.

Americans no less than Russians have equated such successes with national prestige. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee when the 1928 games were held, said in his official report: "Nothing is more synonymous of our national success than in our national success in athletics."

Now the same boast is heard from the Russian camp. Russia's wealth of topflight athletic talent, a result of mass participation in state-run athletic programs, again threatens to run off with the most medals at the summer games.

First Challenge
In its first challenge to American athletic supremacy, at the summer Olympics in Helsinki in 1952, Russian contenders won 23 gold medals and narrowly lost to the United States in the unofficial — but widely followed — team points standing.

Four years later, at Melbourne, Australia, the Russians won 37 gold medals, compared to 32 for Americans, and led in the unofficial point standings, 722 to 593. In 1960, at Rome, the Soviet advantage in gold medals climbed to 43-34, and the Russians nearly doubled the point spread, collecting 807½ to 564½ points for the United States.

Mastery of the summer games by the Soviets usually is attributed to their overwhelming success in so-called minor sports, and women's events.

It is true that American teams have never been beaten in points in men's track and field competition — the most prestigious division of Olympic sports. But some American sports officials believe the U. S. track squad may be in for a rude jolt at Tokyo.

Moreover, some of the rapidly in popularity throughout the world. Gymnastics, with its combination of grace and strength, is an appealing sport to millions of television viewers. Yet the United States has not had an Olympic gold medalist in gymnastics since 1932.

Sports Obsession
Russia's obsession with sports is almost beyond comprehension. To be a sports hero in the Soviet Union is one of the highest honors a citizen can achieve. The entire educational and social system is geared to recognizing and promoting athletic talent.

"Every healthy person has the makings of a good athlete," says a Russian coach in a concise statement of the state's sports philosophy.

"Skill is something everybody can acquire, except perhaps those who can't make themselves get down to work properly." In all, some 30 million Russians are enrolled in what the Soviet press calls, "the total army of Soviet sportsmen."

PCAAT To Hold Award Dinner

CANADENSIS — On Thursday, June 11, at 6:30 p.m., the Pocono Catholic Athletic Association will sponsor its First Annual Awards Dinner.

This night has been set aside to honor the students of the Pocono Catholic Mission's School who have participated in the athletic program during the school year. Awards will be presented to the athletes who have earned their school letter.

The public is invited, as well as the school parents.

Father Healey of Scranton will be the principal speaker.

Steve Marlew and Norb Ryan are co-chairmen of the affair. Tickets can be secured from the school office, co-chairman or the association secretary.

Hansen Given Crew Letter
PRINCETON, N.J. — Philip E. Hansen, Princeton class of 1968, has been awarded a varsity letter for lightweight crew.

Hansen lives at 1435 Glenbrook Rd.
The Princeton lightweight crew team finished the season with a record of 2-3.

How formidable such a mass-style athletic effort can become was shown at the recent winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria. The Soviet team dominated the games, capturing 11 gold medals as well as eight silver and six bronze medals.

Yet only one-third of the men and women of the 74-Olympics. At Innsbruck, the 106-member U.S. team won only one gold medal (by speed skater Terry McDermott), two silver and three bronze medals — the poorest American showing since 1936.

The question being posed for Americans now is whether a mass approach to athletics can be encouraged here without doing violence to the essentially amateur nature of most sports activity in the United States.

Calls are being heard in Congress and elsewhere for a reappraisal of American athletic programs with an eye toward a broader and more carefully managed sports effort.

Long-Range Plans
To this end, a new citizens group allied with the U.S. Olympic Committee has advocated a long-range program to raise American physical fitness standards and restore this country's Olympic supremacy.

President Johnson has given the undertaking his endorsement. At present the group is conducting a survey to find out what will be required in the training methods and money (to be raised by private subscription) to develop winners in all sports in international competition.

The committee's task is a tough one; it will have to combat a combination of national squabbles.

Americans might do well to pause before shrugging off a defeat in international athletic competition. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), for example, has pointed out that "the relentless struggle between freedom and communism embraces almost every level of life from spacemen to sprinters."

Nations of spectators have short histories. "The Greeks," noted the late President Kennedy in a plea for the vigorous life, "understood that mind and body must develop in harmonious proportion to produce a serene and creative civilization."

Cadue Promises Demo '64 Win

SWIFTWATER — A new chairman took over the reins of the Monroe County Democratic Committee Tuesday night and promised party workers a sweeping victory in 1964.

The county committee met in the Empress Room at Mt. Airy Lodge in Swiftwater to formally install James V. Cadue as chairman.

Cadue was elected to the post in April's primary election. He succeeds W.C.G. (Bud) Peterson, who did not seek re-election.

Blend Old and Young

The new chairman told the 38 committee people at the meeting the only way to success is to "blend the young with the old and move forward."

He said if party duties conflict with personal chores the committee people must make a choice. "But," he said, "constant absence will mean removal from office."

The Democratic workers were told "the party is bigger than the workers."

Cadue proposed the following by-law changes to the committee:

—All committee people will be recognized as leaders in their districts by the county chairman.

—The executive committee will endorse all candidates for county office. The candidates will be chosen from the recommendations of committee people.

18,360 Acres Sprayed In Poconos

HARRISBURG—Aerial spraying of 18,360 acres of Pocono Mountain woodland to destroy gypsy moths has been completed, State Agriculture Secretary Leland H. Bull announced yesterday.

The 1964 spray program began May 19 and covered six separate areas where gypsy moth infestations had been discovered, according to Henry F. Nixon, director of the department's Bureau of Plant Industry. The plots are in Northampton, Monroe and Pike Counties.

The project, part of a federal-state program in Pennsylvania and neighboring states, has been repeated annually in the Poconos where gypsy moths are a threat to hardwood trees. A total of 19,188 gallons of spray material was applied from airplanes. The active ingredient was Sevin, a chemical insecticide with less residual effect than those used in the past, Nixon said.

The next phase of the project—setting out 10,000 to 12,000 insect traps—will begin in the area in mid-June, according to Nixon. The purpose, he explained, is to detect any reinfestation that might have occurred as the result of high winds or mechanical equipment carrying new larvae into the region.

Gypsy moths, if uncontrolled, can destroy large areas of woodland by defoliating hardwood trees. Serious economic loss has followed infestations in several New England states, according to Nixon.

Cramer Graduates From Blair

BLAIRSTOWN, N. J. — William B. Cramer of 125 Berwick Heights Rd., East Stroudsburg, was among 9 students graduated from Blair Academy Sunday.

Baccalaureate services were held at 11 a.m. in Memorial Hall. James Howard, headmaster of the school, delivered the sermon. Dr. J. Brooks Hoffman, president of Blair's Board of Trustees and physician of Greenwich, Conn., awarded the diplomas.

Cramer, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cramer, won this year's Franklin Prize. This award is for the boy who has shown the greatest development and improvement at school.

Stewart S. Cort, president of Bethlehem Steel Co., was the featured speaker at Blair's Senior Banquet Saturday. Cort is a graduate of Blair Academy and Yale University.

ple. Cadue urged balanced tickets.

—Any person who takes money from both parties in behalf of candidates will be removed from any office they hold.

—The county chairman will assume his duties as soon as he is certified by the county board of election.

—State committeeman, state representative and state senator will resign from the executive committee but can be renamed on a motion by the county chairman.

—Expand the executive committee from its present nine members to 21 with two members to be elected at large.

—Vacancies on the executive committee will be filled by the county chairman.

The suggestions were given to the by-laws committee and will be voted on at the next meeting.

Also attending the meeting were Rep. Van D. Yetter; Warren Loney, county treasurer; Frank Smith, county prothonotary; Stuart Pipher, county commissioner; J. Joseph McCluskey, state committeeman, and Mrs. Grace Kunkle Palmer, vice chairman.

"Very Little" Accomplished
Yetter said the general assembly has been in Harrisburg since January trying to pass money bills and has accomplished "very little."

He said this was in sharp contrast to the Democratic administrations of George Leader and David Lawrence.

He said in all his 10 years in Harrisburg he never saw a governor play "power politics" the way Gov. William Scranton does.

Pipher urged county democrats to "Roar and roar in '64" and McCluskey said the meeting was the "first step in a long journey toward a Democratic victory in November."

2 Receive Degrees At St. Lawrence

CANTON, N. Y. — Two area students graduated with Bachelor of Arts degrees from St. Lawrence University Sunday afternoon.

The Honorable Robert H. Winters, chairman of the board of Rio Algom Mines, Ltd., of Toronto, Canada, delivered the commencement address to the graduating class of more than 300.

Getting degrees were: Amzi B. Wyckoff, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Wyckoff of Club Court, Stroudsburg, who majored in Economics. He has served as an orientation leader and as a business manager of the male singing group Saints.

He is also a member of Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity and a member of the Army ROTC program. He was commissioned a 2nd Lt. in the U. S. Army Reserve.

Also, Eugenia L. Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Anderson, of Beacon Hill Rd., RD 3, East Stroudsburg who majored in French.

As an undergraduate, Miss Anderson appeared in the Mummer's Society production of "Brigadoon," "I. B.," and "The Heiress." She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Wagner No VP Candidate

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner removed himself this week as a possible Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate from New York.

The mayor previously indicated he did not desire to run. But Monday's statement said "under no circumstances" would he be a candidate.

He said "personal reasons" prompted his decision and said he thinks the job as mayor is more important.

Air Violated

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China charged Monday that a U. S. military plane violated Chinese air space by flying over the Hsisha (Parnell) islands in the South China Sea off Viet Nam.

Maryland Shoppers Back To Corner Grocery

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Thousands of Maryland women are developing an attachment to their corner grocer, and the grocer's wife loves it.

It's been going on since April 17, when most of the supermarkets in the state were shut by a labor dispute.

The strike is against Acme Stores by the Retail Clerks Union. Six other chains — A&P, Food Fair, Giant, Safeway, Penn Fruit and Grand Union—then closed voluntarily.

The union, seeking use of more full-time employees and fewer part-timers, said management was trying to force a subcontract on employees.

The stores said a strike against all because all seven had been bargaining as a group. Negotiations continue, but with little progress.

With 225 stores closed from

Hagerstown in western Maryland to the Eastern Shore of Chesapeake Bay, the housewife had to turn elsewhere.

Chain stores remaining open—Korvette, Colonial and Eddie's—and the 3,700 or so independent grocers are trying to take up the slack.

Supermarkets that still are open are packed, their parking lots overflowing.

In rural areas, where there are no delicatessens and corner groceries of the cities, the strike is more than an inconvenience to housewives; it's a hardship.

There have been shortages—cat food is an example—and shelves are no sooner filled before they are emptied again.

Joseph Manning, president of the Independent Retail Grocers Association, has asked shoppers who feel they're being gouged to call him.

'Economic Stagnation'

Rooney Calls For Tocks Approval

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Testifying before a House Internal Affairs committee Tuesday, Rep. Fred B. Rooney called for early approval of a national recreation area for Tocks Island to rid the affected area of "economic stagnation."

In a prepared statement Rooney said a recreation area surrounding the proposed dam site would be the greatest economic boost Northeastern Pennsylvania received in the past 50 years.

Rooney said: "Since 1955 many of the residents of the area along the Delaware have not known what the state of their properties might be."

"It has been stated earlier before this committee that land speculation is a matter of grave concern in the Pike and Monroe County area."

"While I would certainly agree with this, I want to point out, also, that there is a second evil which goes hand in hand with land speculation as a result of indecision regarding an issue of this kind."

"That evil is economic stagnation."

Rate of Growth, Zero

"The rate of growth in Bushkill, which will be flooded out by the reservoir, has been zero since the project was first proposed eight years ago."

"The same rule of thumb can very nearly be applied to most of the remaining areas of Pike County."

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Heart Association recommended Monday that the public cut down its fatty food intake. It said it might reduce the risk of heart attacks and strokes.

The association made the recommendation in 1961 but it applied chiefly to persons with a high attack risk.

The association indicated its decision to extend the recommendation was based on "evidence from many countries (that) suggests a relationship between the amount and type of fat consumed, the amount of cholesterol in the blood and the reported incidence of coronary artery disease."

The Red Cross Bloodmobile drive was sponsored by the East Stroudsburg Ministerium. The ministerium conveyed yesterday its thanks to each of the industries, institutions and individuals who participated.

E-L Bid In Pen Argyl Protested

EASTON — Five State Bell Industries Tuesday protested the application of the Erie - Lackawanna Railroad to change its Pen Argyl station from an agency freight station to a carload only freight station.

The protest was registered at a hearing in Easton City Hall. Testimony was taken by PUC Examiner Calvin D. Spiller. The PUC will issue its ruling later.

The protests were made by the Stephens - Jackson Slate Co., David Stoddard and Sons, Inc., Albion Vela Slate Co. and Anthony Daily and Sons, Inc., all of Pen Argyl, and Supradur Manufacturing Co. of Wind Gap. Under the railroad's proposal, the clerk at the Pen Argyl station would be eliminated and all the paper work would be handled at the railroad's station in Bangor.

Shippers from the Pen Argyl area would have to do all bill of lading manifest operations in Bangor rather than Pen Argyl. According to the railroad testimony, Erie - Lackawanna would save $7,367 a year by the proposed change.

The firms contended increased cost and inconvenience would result to them because of the change and it would deter future growth of industry in the area. They claim railroad business at the Pen Argyl Station has increased more than 200 per cent since 1960, to a point where projected gross revenues in 1963 totaled $496,908.

Atty. James F. Pritchard of Bangor represented the firms. Atty. Cody H. Brooks of Scranton, represented the railroad.

Chamber To Tour Depot

TOBYHANNA—A special tour of the Tobyhanna Army Depot will be conducted Monday, June 15, at 1 p.m. by the Pocono Mountain Chamber of Commerce.

Visitors will tour the post on a "Toumobile." They will be shown automatic equipment and various depot operations. The depot employs 445 persons from Monroe County, according to R. M. Hoot, executive secretary of the chamber.

In other business, the chamber board of directors will meet in the staff conference room in the administration building at 11 a.m. A luncheon in the officers' club will follow. Members desiring additional information are urged to contact the chamber office before June 12.

Adoptions In Monroe Decline

Recent Harrisburg Bureau HARRISBURG — A total of eight child adoptions were completed in Monroe County during 1962, a just completed detailed report of the State Department of Public Welfare indicated yesterday.

Statistics maintained by the department show that the eight adoptions were down from the 22 recorded during the preceding year.

Of the total adoptions in the county, two were children listed as being born in wedlock and six as born out-of-wedlock.

As to birthplace of the children adopted by Monroe County, one was born in Monroe County, three were listed as born outside the county and four were born outside of Pennsylvania.

Adoptions were most numerous in the two-to-five-years age group of which there were four adoptions; followed by two in the ten-years-and-over group, then one each in the under - one year-of-age and five-to-ten-years age groups.

Relatives adopted four of the children, one was adopted by an individual other than a relative and three by an agency.

Of the eight adoption decrees issued in the county, department records show six were by consent, one by voluntary relinquishment and one by a combination of relinquishment and abandonment and-or consent.

The department pointed out that court approval must be granted in Pennsylvania before an adoption becomes final — and that children must remain in the foster home at least six months before a final adoption decree is issued.

Fails To Show, Forefeits $38

EAST STROUDSBURG — Albert A. Fenical, 30, of 115 Day St., East Stroudsburg forfeited a $38 bond to cover fine and cost Tuesday when he failed to appear before Harold Larison Sr., East Stroudsburg Justice of the Peace. He was charged with two counts of disorderly conduct.

The first charge stemmed from a complaint by Corinne Miller of 103 Harrison St., East Stroudsburg on June 7. The second charge arose when Fenical caused a disturbance with East Stroudsburg police on June 8 while police issued the warrant for his arrest.

Cy Barrett Says

Lovely Ireland

DEAR CY:

I am a writer, but so far have never sold an article. My aim is to travel and write. By selling my work, part of the travel would be at business expense. Northern Ireland is where I would like to start my wanderings, taking a typewriter. How about it, Cy?

MIKE

DEAR MIKE:

Northern Ireland, with a population of about a million and a half, . . . industrial hardship . . . would make excellent material. This beautiful 5,242 square mile hunk of emerald isle is re-bounding beautifully after shocking declines in traditional major industries: Irish linen and shipbuilding. Between 1952 and 1962 northern Ireland's industrial output rose 50 percent compared to the rest of the United Kingdom which hit 37 percent.

To entice industry and help develop it, the government of northern Ireland operates two main financial assistance programs. These are the capital grants program and the industries development program. With growing acceptance of the world market concept, over 20 U.S. companies have already located there. These include I. T. & T., Monsanto, National Distillers, Du Pont, Norton, Hughes, Spalding.

If you can keep your mind off the golf, sailing, gorgeous Irish scenery and colliers, there is a mountain of material to be scrounged up for articles on this area. But don't rely on the luck of the Irish. Careful with (those business expenses!)

DEAR CY:

You quoted Sergeant J. I. Hutson of the Ohio state patrol as saying three people must often be apprehended in passing a single bad check. Besides the checkwriter, there was the endorser and the actual passer, with so many racketeers in the act, it would seem the federal government should be doing its part to stamp out this criminal activity.

MUESING

DEAR MUESING:

Sergeant Hutson portrayed the state patrol's role in cooperating with other law enforcement agencies in the examination of questionable documents. Under a new arrangement, U.S. postal inspectors, the FBI and their knowledge of major criminal activities and cooperatively share their investigatory skills.

One of the most recent examples of this joint effort was seen when a federal team tightened the lid on check swindlers in Miami. With forged credentials, the criminals ordered truckloads of pianos and other merchandise. Upon delivery, they paid with phony checks. Until these gifted bad check artists were apprehended, they were rickshacking checks at the rate of 40 per day.

DEAR CY:

In 1952, we bought this place and have a 20 year mortgage on it. I am now pregnant again, and when the baby arrives in September, we expect to buy a larger house. My husband says, "We'll get a 25 year mortgage this time and spread the payments thinner."

My two cousins have 20 year mortgages and I am inclined to be against the 25 year deal. We would be paying too much mortgage interest in my feeling. Hope you side with me.

GLADY G.

DEAR GLADY:

Being on your side places me in the middle. See what these figures can do to shape your decision. A Federal Housing Administration survey reveals the average FHA insured mortgage in 1952 was for a duration of 21.7 years.

Last year, following the gradual slackening of mortgage requirements, the statistic was 31 years. During the same period, the average incomes of FHA insured home buyers rose from $4,811 to $5,756. This doesn't take into account shirking relations and earnings of specific spouses. Only you can make that interpolation.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 6. If the number is less than 6, add 6. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Washington Report

Post-War Baby Boom Makes 1964 College BA Surplus

By Richard Spong

Editorial Research Reports
WASHINGTON — More and better degree candidates are being turned out by American colleges and universities this June in keeping with a boom in education that contemplates no logical end.

According to the U.S. Office of Education, the states and territories will graduate some 491,000 bachelors and first professional degree candidates, of whom 447,000 will receive bachelors degrees.

Another 92,400 men and women will receive masters degrees, and 12,900 will receive doctorates. All these totals are rounded, but they are due to be shattered next year, and next year's records will be equally phenomenal.

The federal pulse — counters expect a total of 792,000 first degree candidates by 1974, and they may be conservative.

Boys and girls born in 1945 and 1946, those post-World War II baby boom years, are ready for college this year.

Applications were up 32 percent, according to a N.Y. Herald Tribune survey. About half of this June's 2.3 million high school graduates will go to college.

Next year will see 2.5 million graduated from secondary schools, with 50 percent or more going on to tertiary institutions.

The admissions pressure remains steady on the Ivy League and Seven Sisters colleges, and in recent years it has been at least as heavy on smaller selective institutions.

This year the state universities and colleges were swamped.

The outlook for the June graduate continues to be rosy, for the irony of the present economy is that highly trained workers are still quite scarce though unemployment of the unskilled continues high.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz in the traditional open letter to the 1964 graduates in March assured them that job prospects were favorable in almost all fields and that the economy shows "growing promise" for beginners for the year ahead.

Demand for engineers continues strong. Employers are offering beginners with technical skills from $8,000 to $7,200 a year. Greatest demand is for specialists in electrical, mechanical, or chemical engineering.

Wirtz reports an unprecedented demand for high school and elementary school teachers. About 200,000 are needed during the next year. An increasing number of city school systems are requiring masters degrees. Thus an increasing number of graduates are staying in school for at least a another year.

Colleges and universities are expanding their efforts to supply the direly needed candidates for doctorates. Tulane is introducing a program that will give outstanding students up to $8,200 in aid to help them get doctorates in four years.

Harvard picks 25 of its brightest and gives them free tuition and up to $20,000 a year for five years.

Yale makes it easier by allowing some candidates to take both masters and bachelors degree in four years.

Dartmouth, having seriously adopted the year-round school system last year, makes it at least theoretically possible to get a bachelor degree in three years.

A great many other institutions are turning to an 11 or 12 month operation.

20 Vie Saturday For State Queen

EAST STROUDSBURG — A bevy of 20 beauty contest winners will hold the spotlight Saturday night at Oak Grove Hotel in Marshalls Creek when they vie for the 1964 Miss Pennsylvania title — a forerunner to the Miss United States crown.

William Bridger, hotel manager, said the public is invited to the ceremony. He said dining and dancing will begin at 8 p.m. and the coronation will take place later in the night.

Among the judges will be Bruce Phillips, program director of WVPO in Stroudsburg; Joe McCawley, announcer of WIP radio in Philadelphia; Dick Carr, WIP program director; and Dr. Floyd Shafer of Stroudsburg; George Bassett, WGPA radio in Bethlehem.

The winner of Saturday night's contest will win a trophy and a two-week vacation to Huntington, W. Va., during August, at which time she will compete in the Miss United States contest.

The winner of the Huntington contest will be given a Mercury convertible and movie and television opportunities. Last year's Miss United States toured with Bob Hope, Bridger said.

Among the contestants Saturday night will be Miss Altoona, Miss West Chester, Miss Philadelphia, Miss Pittsburg, Miss Harrisburg, Miss Lower Merion and Miss South Philadelphia.

Bridger said special guests will include Miss Pennsylvania of 1962, Miss Delaware of 1963 and Miss New Jersey of 1962 and 1963.

Extensive Damage In Accident

STROUDSBURG — Extensive damage was caused to a pick-up truck involved in a rear-end collision with a dump truck on Rt. 209 four miles east of East Stroudsburg at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

Dale Kelper, 21, of Bushkill, RD 1, was identified as the operator of the pick-up truck. Calvin Kresge, 18, of Saylorsburg was operating the dump truck, Stroudsburg State Police said.

Both trucks were traveling west towards East Stroudsburg. Kresge was attempting to make a left turn when the Kelper vehicle struck the rear of the dump truck. Both drivers escaped injury, police said.

Parking Lot Would Take 1,000 Homes

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—More than 1,000 homes and 10 industries would have to be torn down to provide adequate parking facilities around Connie Mack Stadium, according to surveys made by city and private consultants.

Mayor James Tate, who favors construction of a new $25 million stadium, rather than the modernization of Connie Mack Stadium, said he doesn't regard it as a sound program. He said recently the razing of Mack Stadium would cost $10 million plus additional millions needed to modernize the stadium to hold 60,000 persons.

The proposed stadium would be on slits over Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at 30th and Arch streets.

Jerry Wolman, owner of the National Football League Philadelphia Eagles, recently purchased Connie Mack Stadium and offered to sell it to the city for 50 cents if the city would modernize it or use the site for a new stadium.

Gap Council Allocates $200 For 75th Year Promotion

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Delaware Water Gap Council, at a meeting this week, allocated $200 to Mayor Arthur Lehr for promotion of the borough's 75th anniversary.

Lehr asked council for funds to promote the program. Council gave him full authority, and funds, to operate the program. He will report at the next council meeting other members he has chosen to work with him on the anniversary committee.

In other business council passed an ordinance creating a planning committee. It is expected that five persons interested and willing to work on the committee will be named.

Council also directed the secretary to advertise for applications for an assistant patrolman in the borough. The duties of the patrolman will be traffic control.

Interested persons should contact Mrs. Jeannette LaBar, secretary.

Linen Supplier Evades Taxes

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Two receivers have been named to run the 15 linen supply companies owned by Morris G. Goldberg, who is under a jail sentence for evasion of nearly a million dollars in income taxes. They were appointed Monday by Judge Thomas J. Clary of U.S. District Court.

In October, 1961, Goldberg, 65, was sentenced to seven years in prison and fined $70,000. Last week, the Supreme Court refused to review the conviction.

ADVERTISER AT WORK!

Rising young businessmen, thirsting for sales, know that advertising works to spread the news. As you read the pages of this newspaper, you'll see examples of other, more mature, advertising at work.

Advertising works all along the line, from producer to consumer. Through your newspaper's pages, manufacturers and retailers inform you of new products and services, and keep reminding you of their established brands.

Advertising works to create a demand for more products, resulting in stepped-up production. Greater production leads to less unit cost—and the saving is passed on to you.

Advertising in this newspaper is news—good news—because it works constantly to inform you of the latest and best. It is a stepping stone toward an ever-higher standard of living.
